To whom it may concern:

I am writing to tell you that I, as a taxpayer in good standing in this wonderful country, am tired of the government and most especially the supposedly Justice Department, going after Microsoft and Bill Gates. If it weren't for men like Mr. Gates, we wouldn't have the user friendly format known as Windows and the amount of revenue he has generated for this country. Yes, he made money for himself, but I thought that was the American way. He also gives away more money than just about anyone in this country also.

This entire lawsuit is about sour grapes and I wish you people would find better things to do than chase after a legitimate entrepreneur. If Mac can't make it against Microsoft, oh well! That's the breaks of doing business.

Please find another horse to flog....this one is deader than the proverbial doornail.
Sincerely,

Teresa Kincheloe
